Materials to make 1 book cover:

Your choice of Fabric

(Measure the open book and add 9 ½” to the width
and 3” to the height for the fabric size)

Thread that matches fabric

Fabric Markers

Ruler & Scissors

1st Step

- Lay the fabric down with the wrong side up.
- Open the book and place it on top of the fabric in the center.
- Use the fabric marker and a ruler to mark a rectangle on the fabric for a cut guideline, using the measurements below.
- Measure 1 ½” up from the top of the book on the fabric and make a few marks along the top. Do this at the bottom of the book also.
- Measure about 4 ¾” out from each side of the book on the fabric and make a few marks along the book.
- Then you can draw a line along the marks to make a rectangle. Cut out the fabric along your lines.

2nd Step

- Turn the fabric ½” under on all 4 sides and machine stitch a hem.

3rd Step

- On the top and bottom edges of your book cover fold over ¾” and machine stitch close to the edge of the hem.

4th Step

- Next, sewing your stock designs onto the book cover.
- I would suggest laying your book cover down wrong side up again and placing the book open on top if it. Fold each side of the fabric in and then close the book.
- Now you can mark where you would like your embroidery designs sewn on the book cover.

5th Step

- Embroider the designs onto the book cover.
- (Just remember that about 3 ½” of the fabric on both sides will be folded create the flap inside the book and will not be visible.)

6th Step

- Remove the cover from the hoop and iron if needed.
- Place the book cover wrong side up and place the open book on top making sure it is in the center of the fabric.
- Flip the left piece of fabric over the front cover of the book and pin at the top and bottom.
- Then flip the right side of the fabric over the back cover and pin at the top and the bottom.
- Gently remove the book from the cover and hand sew the flaps to the front of the book cover on the tops and the bottoms.

7th Step

- Put the completed cover back on the book.
- Give you child or grandchild some fabric markers or other markers and let them have fun decorating the book covers.

Thank you for your order.
